YAZARLAR

A vertical grey bar runs down the center of the page, separating the portraits from the text area on the right.

The text area on the right consists of several horizontal grey bars of varying lengths, stacked vertically. The top bar is the longest and contains a red circle with a white minus sign (-) on its left side. Below it is a shorter bar with a rounded left edge. The next bar is the same length as the second bar. Below that is a bar of the same length as the first bar, containing a small red dot on its right side. The next bar is shorter than the first bar, containing a small red dot on its right side. The final bar is the same length as the first bar, containing a small red dot on its right side.
